Gwyneth Paltrow is a Kimara Ahnert fan

Celebrity Address Book

Makeup artist Kimara Ahnert's Upper East Side salon (above) is one of New York's chicest hidden jewels. A-list celebs and socials like Gwyneth Paltrow, Christie Brinkley, and Tinsley Mortimer book appointments for elegant preparty makeup, face-firming facials, and discreet waxing.

Kimara Ahnert, 1113 Madison Ave., New York City; 212-452-4252. kimara.com.

MOST WANTED

Right on the heels of the black-polish boom, navy is the new must-have hue. Two shades sure to be on trendy fingers and toes are OPI Yoga-ta Get This Blue! (left, $8.50) and Chanel Blue Satin (below, $19). Tip: Nails drenched in dark polish should be no longer than your fingertips.

INSTANT WRINKLE ERASER

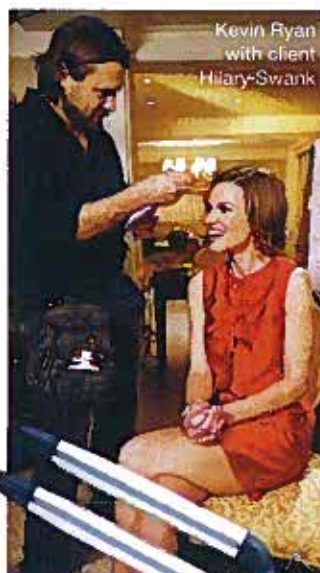

Not ready for a round of Restylane? Makeup artist Bruce Grayson, who works with Katie Holmes, suggests dabbing Olay Regenerist Filling + Sealing Treatment ($18.99) into wrinkles before using makeup. "It smooths the lines that cause makeup to crease, and the effects last all day," he says.

SKIN-SAVING SHADOW

Packed with soy, silk powder, and a plethora of vitamins, Neutrogena's new Nourishing Eye Duos boast many of the same line-fighting ingredients found in your favorite eye cream. Apply a light dusting onto lids, or layer on with a wet brush for a smoky look. The creaseless shadows keep eyelids looking smooth.

Trick of the Trade

Salon owner Frank Rizzieri and star stylist Kevin Ryan (left) collaborated to create Rsession, a line of original tools that hair pros and models went nuts over backstage at the shows. Get runwayworthy hair with the Nalu Waver (below, $199.99), a double-pronged curling iron that creates natural, deconstructed waves, and Root Control ($189.99), a comb that straightens roots (a lifesaver for those who get thermal straightening).
